

The Canadian Urban Institute presents a roundtable breakfast:

Engaging Torontonians Where They Live: Putting Neighbourhoods on the Agenda January 18, 2007

Toronto, January 15, 2007– The diversity of Toronto’s neighbourhoods is well known and has long been considered one of the city’s principal strengths. But the pace of change can take its toll on the relationship between residents and City Hall. If the goals of the official plan are to be realized, city planners must find creative new ways to engage local residents. Come and hear Toronto’s chief planner discuss the challenges that lie ahead in 2007.

WHAT: The Canadian Urban Institute’s Roundtable Breakfast Series offers informal debates on the leading urban issues of the day.
