

CUI Roundtable Breakfast Seminar:

Prospects for Ontario's Auto Sector: A Reality Check

April 6, 2006

Toronto, April 3, 2006 – Although the value to Ontario's economy is well-known, the changing dynamics of this key sector in terms of logistics, investment and regional impact are less well understood. Even for the interested observer, articles in the media present a biased, confusing and sometimes conflicting picture. As Canada's leading auto sector analyst, Dennis DesRosiers is well placed to provide some much needed clarity.

Is the performance of the Big Three is a cause for concern? Does the growth currently being enjoyed by the New Domestic fill the gap? Is the auto parts sector investing enough in its future? As the shop floor becomes increasingly hi-tech, is Ontario's workforce up to the task? How will labour respond? Will Ontario's auto sector even survive? Dennis will address these and other key questions.

WHAT: The Canadian Urban Institute's Roundtable Breakfast Series offers informal debates on the leading urban issues of the day.
